New Study Program

A new interdisciplinary studies major is to be offered initially this spring at Cedarville College.

The major will center around basic courses which will utilize team teaching. This team teaching concept necessitated a steering board composed of various members of the faculty from several of the faculty from several different areas. The steering board consists of Mr. Harmon Bergen, English; Mr. James Grier, Philosophy; Mr. David L. Matson, Music; Dr. Allen Monroe, Social Science; and Dr. J. Murray Murdoch, History. Dr. Murdoch is also the program coordinator.

The predominant stress of the courses in the IDS major is to give instructors from several different areas the opportunity to contribute to a given subject. The student will also be able to see the instructors defend their Christian world view and to draw together the Christian college community and show its value.

The new major will be especially beneficial for those planning to continue their education at a graduate or professional school such as law school or seminary. Others who would find the major helpful would be those who desire as broad an educational base as possible at the undergraduate level.

The major consists of ninety hours of courses in the IDS major. An area of concentration within the major is required and can be chosen from Bible Studies, General Humanities, History, Literature, Philosophy and Religion, Political Science, Psychology and Sociology. Thirty hours of courses are required from one of these areas of concentration.

The new courses of the major will all be team taught with different members of the IDS committee serving as coordinators. The courses will include American Minorities coordinated by Dr. Murdoch; Man and Reliable Knowledge coordinated by Mr. Grier; and Man and His Environment coordinated by Dr. Monroe. There will also be an Interdisciplinary Studies Seminar conducted by the IDS committee. In addition to these new courses, General Psychology, Introduction to Philosophy, Religion and Culture, World Literature Logic and Social Psychology are required as well.

The first course of the IDS major will be offered this spring. The course is American Minorities and will be team taught by Dr. Ager, Dr. Murdoch, Dr. Scott and Mr. Phipps.

The IDS committee had considered the idea of the new major for some time before actually being able to launch it as they will be doing next quarter. The idea of the major was met with enthusiasm on the behalf of the examiners from North Central as well.

EDITORIAL CEDARVILLE PRESS

You may have asked yourself about Cedarville's newly founded newspaper. The reasons for founding the Cedarville Press go something like this.

Cedarville merchants have said they would like to have a local newspaper. Many people have expressed the fact that they used to look forward to reading their local newspaper and would welcome a newspaper once again. Several of the people of Cedarville have expressed an interest in writing news stories of local events. Others are known to have experience as feature writers. Their help would be most welcome in our effort to make

Newspapers keep people informed on events that are happening around the town. Newspapers provide a forum for important issues and permit the local businesses and townspeople to advertise the products and services that are available. Because of newspapers little Tommy may be able to buy a used bicycle. Or Mrs. Smith may be able to advertise her rummage sale and some young couple may be lucky enough then to find valuable antiques at a bargain price.

Editorial comments appear in the newspaper for a variety of reasons. First of all newspapers provide important information to the reader; information that covers news items that the reader may want very much to know about. Everyone knows of examples of news that concern many people.

Zoning laws and ordinances may effect the property rights of many citizens. Or simply news about friends or relatives may be of interest to many readers.

Sometimes in the busy rush of a days activities the importance of a news item may go unnoticed. Editorials help to call the attention of the reader to important events. Editorials provide, often times, background information and comments that can help the reader to evaluate the impact of events. At least those are the kind of editorials you can expect from the Cedarville Press. In addition editorials may offer an opinion on topics that are being considered at the time. Newspaper editorial writing has the advantage of being away from the pressures of the issues and sometimes an objective opinion is helpful toward the solution of difficult problems.

Perhaps one of the important reasons that the people of Cedarville are to have a newspaper is the fact that the town is made up of good people; people that take pride in appearance and the fact that the town is clean and unspoiled by the secondary consequences of technology.

And so, the Cedarville Press will be published each week to provide the services that a newspaper can supply. Also to be certain that important issues are reported and discussed for the benefit of the people of Cedarville.

Callan's Rebuilding Task Looks Good

Don Callan, Cedarville College Basketball Coach was interviewed by the Cedarville Press Monday night prior to the season finale with Malone. Obviously disappointed with the Yellow Jackets season record Don commented on some of the important factors of the past season. Cedarville opened the season having lost three starters over six feet from last years team. Being short of rebound performance for most games this season, the Yellow Jackets worked to build experienced players for the latter part of this season and next years team. The victory over Central State gave evidence of this teams potential for the 72-73 season.

Rebounding could be a different story next season as the Yellow Jackets will have back the services of 6'3" Lynn Howard, 6'2" Dan Hensop, 6'1" Larry Eck and 6'3" Terry Clapp who averaged better than 11 points per game. Also, 6'5" Bill

CHS Posts Winning Season

Cedarville High School's Indians finished their basketball season Saturday night after compiling an over all season record of eleven wins and eight losses. Dropped from post season tourney action by a tall and talented Westmont the Indians turned in a splendid performance for the season after posting a record of 8 wins and 106 losses for the past six years.

Coach Dale Nordyke in an interview Monday with the Cedarville Press said his team had a tremendous year. Only three cagers will be lost from this years sparkling Indians. Starter Mike Ulsh and seniors Keith Stigers and Kevin Fields will be graduating this spring.

Summerizing the tourney loss to Westmont, Coach Nerdyke explained that Westmont had too much height and the Indians simply had an off night. Cedarville gave up 61 rebounds while grabbing down only 29. For the season Cedarville averaged 42 percent from the floor though Saturday they managed only a 29 percent field goal average.

Juniors Robby Krajicek and Bruce Spencer were named to the Darby Valley League's first team selection. Robby Krajicek averaged 16.8 points per game and Bruce Spencer averaged 12 points. Both players will be playing again next season as will junior Mike Stormont who averaged a respectable 8 points per game. Five-eleven Jeff Martindale and six-foot Dan Pyles also return for another season. Starter Richard Willis who was honorable mention all D.V.L. and Phil Hubbard will return next year.

Coach Nordyke who hails from nearby Wilmington College said this years team had the unique characteristic of having a scoring balance with any of the five starters being able to score in the double figures. The junior varsity team finished their season with twelve wins and only six losses, indicating the prospects for another good year as being very good.

Tentative plans have been made for the post season awards banquet to be held at the school dining facilities sometime next week.

Potter who played for the Junior Varsity team and averaged 20 points per game will be on hand to boost the Yellow Jackets chances for a winning season. Team Captain Dave Braumen will return to give the team the much needed play making experience that is required during a rebuilding campaign.

Regardless of how the season finale turns out, look for the Yellow Jackets to have a fast running, good jumping and rebounding quintet during the 72-73 campaign. That means a vastly improved basketball team and fruition of Coach Don Callan's excellent efforts at building to a winning combination.
